About

Change the Conversation's (CTC) mission is to engage all communities in the prevention of and healing from child sexual abuse. To achieve this, the organization provides education and training, and offers support to survivors and their families. By building partnerships and through comprehensive programming, Change the Conversation empowers communities to recognize and prevent abuse.

Their impact is profound: CTC has reached thousands of individuals through its prevention education in schools and trainings in the community, facilitated countless hours of therapy for survivors, and established robust support networks for families affected by abuse. These healing initiatives focus on offering therapeutic resources and support systems to help survivors reclaim their lives and thrive.
